Don't Even Pick One Up!

As I dropped our son off at his new elementary school, I stopped by an open door and overheard the principal's main address to the students.

"Children, three things are very important," she began. "First, we want you to be happy. Only you can make yourself happy. Second, we want you to be safe. We never hurt anyone. We try hard to never hurt anyone's feelings. We never hurt another person's body. Never throw rocks. If you throw a rock, you go home immediately. Because we never throw rocks, we never even pick them up. Understood? We never even pick up rocks."

"Third, we want you to learn. This is a place to learn. Every day, when you go home at 3:30, you should have learned something that you did not know when you came in the morning."

That was all I heard, but it was enough for a good day's lesson. Imagine yourself living by those three rules each day.

- *Today, decide to be happy. It is up to you, you know.
- *Today, learn something. When you go home at the end of the day, you should be wiser than you were in the morning.
- *Today, don't throw rocks at anybody. Don't even pick one up.

Jesus taught these same rules for life. What a world this would be if big people lived by them as well as little people.

Gary Williams, The Christian Exhorter

"Let your speech always be gracious, seasoned with salt, so that you may know how to answer everyone." Colossians 4:6

RANDOM KINDNESS

According to the Associated Press, Chuck Wall, a human relations instructor at Bakersfield College in California, was watching the news one day when a cliché from a broadcaster stuck in his mind: "Another random act of senseless violence." Wall got an idea. He gave an unusual assignment to his students. They were to do something out of the ordinary to help someone and then write an essay about it. Then Wall dreamed up a bumper sticker that said, "Today, I will commit one random act of senseless KINDNESS ... Will You?" The students sold the bumper stickers, which a bank and union paid to have printed, for one dollar each, and the profits went to a county Braille center.

For his random act of kindness one student paid his mother's utility bills. Another student bought 30 blankets and took them to homeless people gathered under a bridge.

The idea took hold. The bumper stickers were slapped on all 113 county patrol cars. It was trumpeted from the pulpits, in schools, and in professional associations. After seeing the success of the idea, Chuck Wall commented, "I had no idea it would erupt like it has. I had no idea our community was in such need of something positive." In this negative and dark world, we each can do acts of kindness to bring some light.

And be ye kind to one another, tenderhearted. Eph. 4:32
